Vienna, November 22. N. S. The 12th Instant a Courier arrived here from England, being dispatch'd by the Count de Gallas, his Imperial Majesty's Envoy there, with an Account of the generous Resolutions her Britannick Majesty had taken to send a timely and powerful Reinforcement to the King of Spain. The Regiments of Dragoons of Vaubonne and Paté, consisting of one thousand Men each, are order'd to be in a readiness to embark for Catalonia. Lieutenant-General Paté, who is an Officer much esteemed, and a Walloon by Birth, will go with those two Regiments, and serve in Spain. The Report concerning the Election of the Abbess of Quedlinburg has pass'd the Aulick Chamber, and will be laid before the Emperor for his Approbation. A Diploma is preparing to creat Signior Albani, the Pope's Nephew, a Prince of the Empire; but as he is not to have any Principality granted with the Title, he will have neither Vote nor Session in the Diet of the Empire. That Minister pretends to be surprized, that the Prince Electoral of Saxony had received the Sacrament according to the manner of the Lutheran Perswasion, having flattered himself, during his stay in Saxony, with the hopes of that Prince's Conversion to the See of Rome.

Lisbon, November 29. N. S. We have not had any Express of late from his Catholick Majesty, which is attributed either to the badness of the Roads by reason of the great Rains, or to the Enemy's diligence in posting Guards at the Passages of the Rivers, to prevent our having any Communication with Castille; but we hear from other Hands, that the Duke of Anjou being informed that considerable Detachments had been made from our Army as far as Cuidad-Real and Almagro, towards the Source of the Guadiana, he had called a Council of all his General Officers, where it was debated whether they should undertake any thing against King Charles, before the Army separated and went into Winter Quarters. The Marquis de Bay pressed the making some Attempt, while our Army was weakned by Detachments, and not yet reinforced by any new Succours, whereupon it was resolved to March, and the Marquis passed the Tagus with his Cavalry at the Bridge of Almaraz, to join the Troops with the Duke of Anjou near Placentia. They then marched towards Talavera de la Reina, with an intent to oblige King Charles to quit all his Posts on this side the Tagus, but they found themselves obliged to stop at the River Alberche, where a Body of his Catholick Majesty's Forces were advantagiously posted, and in a readiness to receive them. Besides, the River is always of a difficult Passage, but more especially in the Winter Season. The Enemy having thus failed of their Design, retired in order to go into Winter Quarters. The Marquis de Bay is daily expected at Badajox, and five Regiments of Horse that were employ'd in that Expedition, are already returned to the Frontiers of Estremadura, and others are gone to Xeres de los Cavalleros. It is not yet known where the Duke of Anjou will take up his Quarters this Winter, but in all probability it will be at Valladolid. The King of Portugal has given Orders for the new Clothing his Troops, and for Recruiting both Horse and Foot, which is forwarding with Expedition, that it is hoped they will be early in the Field the next Campaign.

Hague, December 5. N. S. The several Provinces of this Government having given their Consent to forbid the Importation of certain Commodities from the Baltick Sea, and to oblige all Ships coming from those Parts to make their Quarantain, to prevent the spreading of the Infection from thence, the States General have published a Placard accordingly. The Dutch Fleet from Muscovy is arrived safe at the Texel. The French King's Edict, which has been talked of here for some time, is at last come out, prohibiting the Subjects of this Country to Trade any more with France, and ordering that no Passports shall be given to the Dutch Ships for the future. Particular Letters from France assure us, that his Catholick Majesty's Army keeps very exact Discipline in their Quarters in Castille, that the People at Madrid follow their Business as usual, without any Molestation; and that neither Churches nor Houses have been rifled there, as the Enemy have suggested. The City of Toledo is look'd upon to be so well Fortified already, that it would not be practicable for the Duke of Anjou to drive the Allies out of Castille, were his Army better and stronger than it is at present. And if the Duke of Noailles is disappointed in his Project, there is no doubt but that King Charles will have time to establish himself, and wait for the Succours which are sending to him. The Court of France, among their several Projects for raising Mony, have got an Operator, who has undertaken to make Gold; he has been introduced to the King, and is now at work to perform the large Promises he has made.
